A fitting tribute, pilot's wife says

- First Air pilot's memorial today at Edmonton airport
- Leduc man one of the dozen who died in Resolute Bay plane crash

Flying was a passion for Blair Rutherford, so a memorial at the Edmonton International Airport is fitting, says his wife.

The 48-year-old Leduc-based pilot was one of 12 people killed when the chartered First Air Boeing 737-200 he was flying crashed near Resolute Bay, Nunavut on Aug. 20.

A memorial will be held today at 2 p.m. at the North Caribou hangar at the EIA.

"He loved flying, he loved First Air," Tatiana Rutherford said of her husband, who had been flying for more than two decades. "He just enjoyed going to work. He said it was like a holiday."

Rutherford is a flight attendant for First Air, which is how the couple met. They would have celebrated their 12th wedding anniversary Aug. 21 — one day

First Air crash

- In lieu of flowers, a trust fund has been set up at any Royal Bank of Canada (RBC) branch titled "Noah and Hannah Rutherford."
- The Transportation Safety Board's initial report says there was cloud, fog and light rain at the time of the crash, but the cause has not yet been officially determined.
- A total of 15 passengers were on board, including four crew members. The three survivors include an adult man, adult woman and a seven-year-old girl.

after the crash.

Also mourning are the couple's children, Noah, 11, and Hannah, 9.

"They're worried about how we're going to get by, how we're going to get by without him," Rutherford said. "He definitely was a family man. He enjoyed his kids very much. He was very involved in their sports and activities."

The family has lived in Leduc since 1999, except from 2008 to 2010, when they lived in Yellowknife.

Rutherford said her husband, a Winnipeg native, had been commuting between Yellowknife and Leduc, and had made the flight from Yellowknife to Resolute Bay before.

Inmate charged in death

An inmate at the Edmonton Institution faces a murder charge in the death of fellow inmate Mason Tex Montgrand, 21.

Montgrand, whom a spokesperson for the prison said belonged to the Scorpion Brothers gang, died Aug. 16 from a stab wound sustained in a fight. The accused belongs to a rival gang, said the official.

The fight was reportedly caught on videotape.

Montgrand's death is officially Edmonton's 34th homicide of 2011.

Lance Matthew Shane Regan, 24, is charged with first-degree murder. ● METRO

Watercraft crash kills local girl

A 10-year-old girl from Edmonton is dead after a crash on B.C.'s Okanagan Lake.

RCMP say a boat collided with the personal watercraft she was riding in with another person in Kelowna on Friday night.

Emergency crews searched the lake and eventually found the her body.

The other personal watercraft rider was sent to hospital with non-life-threatening injuries.

Investigators said they believe the boat driver was distracted when he collided with the craft carrying the young girl.

Alcohol and speed are not believed to be factors, police said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

The High Level Bridge seemed a lot higher and longer to those aboard a streetcar yesterday.

Eleven passengers were stranded partway across after leaving Old Strathcona around 11:30 a.m. They arrived north of the river around 2:30 p.m.

"There (was) a lot of uncomfortable and antsy people on board," said Jeff

Want a ride?

- Streetcar No. 33 is the only original Edmonton streetcar on the High Level Bridge line. It was restored and put into service in June.
- The streetcars travel from Old Strathcona to about 100 Avenue between 109 Street and 110 Street.
- Fare is $4 and the service runs from May till October.

Woodward, who, along with others, saw sparks before the car stalled.

Edmonton Radial Railway Society president Hans Ryffel said the car's rear electrical pole bent and snapped, causing a loss of power and damaged overhead line.

The car was eventually towed a bit north before power was restored from another line.

"It was sort of unpleasant because you're over the ground and the water, and you're in a wooden car that's sparking," Jessica Ko-zowski said of her first-ever ride.

This was the first incident like this since the volunteer service began in 1997.

"It was a concern to passengers because they had to wait," said Ryffel. "If it had been somewhere else, that would not have been an issue."

Epcor will make repairs to the overhead line, which Ryffel hopes will be back up and running today.

Typhoon kills 10 in the Philippines

Typhoon Nanmadol began blowing toward Taiwan yesterday after leaving at least 10 people dead and scuttling a visit by a U.S. Navy carrier group in the Philippines, officials said.

Taiwan issued sea and land warnings and planned to evacuate about 6,000 people in its eastern and southern regions. Troops and rescue equipment were deployed.

The typhoon drenched the northern Philippines with rain for days before pummeling the area with fierce wind, setting off landslides and floods and toppling walls that left at least six others missing. About 20 were injured by landslides and toppled trees, said Benito Ramos, who heads the Office of Civil Defence.

Domestic airlines also cancelled more than a dozen flights in northern and central Philippines.

Nanmadol had sustained wind of 195 kilometres per hour and gusts of 230 kph Friday, becoming the strongest typhoon to hit the Philippines so far this year. It weakened after grazing northern Cagayan province Saturday.

Nanmadol was expected to hit Taiwan today, Taiwan's weather bureau said. It urged residents to prepare for strong winds and torrential rain, and warned of landslides.

Storm impact

- Two children died in the resort city of Baguio after a concrete wall collapsed.
- Seven people perished in landslides or drowned.
- About 20 landslides blocked roads in Benguet, a gold-mining region north of Manila.
- More than 57,000 villagers fled their homes in 10 other northern provinces.

Irene's punch not as packed in N.Y.

- Storm knocked out power to 4.5 million people on Eastern Seaboard
- At least 15 people died in the chaos, most from falling trees

Stripped of hurricane rank, Tropical Storm Irene spent the last of its fury yesterday, leaving treacherous flooding and millions without power — but an unfazed New York and relief that it was nothing like the nightmare authorities feared.

The East Coast surveyed the damage, up to $7 billion US by one private estimate, and worried of danger still lurking: The possibility of rivers and streams swelling with rainwater and overflowing in coming days.

The region began the arduous process of getting back to normal. New York lifted its evacuation order for 370,000 people and said it hoped to have its subway rolling again today. Philadelphia restarted its trains and buses. "All in all," New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg said, "we are in pretty good shape."

The centre of Irene passed over Central Park with the storm packing 105-kilometre per hour winds. By evening, it brushed over New England and moved east at 80 kilometres per hour. It was expected to drift into Canada later yesterday or early today.

Travellers wait on flights

Travellers across the nation waited for flights to resume in and out of East Coast airports that were closed by Tropical Storm Irene this weekend.

Federal officials said airports reopened around Washington, which took a glancing blow from Irene. American Airlines said it was resuming flights at the three major airports around the capital.

New York-area airports remained closed yesterday morning. The longer that New York's Kennedy, LaGuardia and Newark, N.J., airports are shuttered, the worse it will be across the country.

Federal officials said they didn't know when the airports would reopen.

Airlines said passengers should call ahead and make sure they have a confirmed seat before going to the airport.

Airlines cancelled thousands of flights for yesterday, but it was unclear how much havoc the storm would cause for travellers. Many planes have been full this summer, so finding empty seats for passengers whose first flight was cancelled could be difficult.

FlightAware, which tracks delays and cancellations, said airlines had indicated about 500 cancellations for today.

The storm affected other forms of transportation. Amtrak cancelled many passenger trains. Greyhound scrubbed trips between Washington and New York, and cruise lines changed itineraries.

Flooding prompts rescues

New York City's fire department made dozens of water rescues around the city because of Irene and was searching for other people who might be trapped.

In the Broad Channel section of Queens, city rescue workers were riding in boats to search bungalows to make sure no one was inside. Altogether, the FDNY has rescued 61 adults and three babies from 21 houses.

Department spokesman Paul Iannizzotto says rescuers in boats picked up 26 people from three families yesterday morning on Staten Island after their homes were flooded by more than 1.5 metres of water.

Irene's fury not quite over: Obama

Despite Tropical Storm Irene's weakened punch, U.S. President Barack Obama urged those in its path to stay vigilant and warned the storm's impact would continue to be felt for some time.

The president said emergency officials were most concerned about lengthy power outages and flooding. He urged the public to heed the warnings and said his administration would continue working with cities and states.

Flight attendants reject latest offer

- ▶ 87.8 per cent of those who voted turned down deal
- ▶ Staff morale low as dispute continues, says rep

The head of the union representing flight attendants at Air Canada is hopeful the federal government won't intervene in the escalating labour dispute between the two sides.

Jeff Taylor, president of the Air Canada component of CUPE, wants the government to respect the union's right to collective bargaining.

"We're hoping that the government will respect our democratic right for collective bargaining and not take the side of the CEOs and the companies against their employees," Taylor said.

Air Canada's flight attendants announced Saturday they had overwhelmingly rejected a tentative agreement reached with the airline this month.

CUPE is organizing a strike vote for next month.

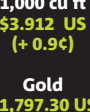

The airline is also negotiating with mechanics and baggage handlers.

A major issue in negotiations with all of the unions is over pensions.

The unions say the airline wants to establish a defined contribution pension plan for new hires, instead of the current defined benefit plan.

Meanwhile, Air Canada says high fuel costs are threatening its future profitability and it said

Concern for UN safety grows after deadly attack

REBECCA BLACKWELL/POOL/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two top UN officials offered conflicting views yesterday on the safety of its Nigeria headquarters after a suicide car bombing there, as the world body paused to mourn the 23 people killed in the attack claimed by a radical Muslim sect.

UN security chief Gregory Starr acknowledged that safety features "could have been better" to stop the speeding sedan loaded with explosives.

Just hours later, UN Deputy Secretary-General Asha-Rose Migiro told journalists that the building had tight security.

Migiro laid bouquets of roses near a UN flag flying at half staff at the site of Friday's attack.

Baghdad mosque bombed

A suicide bomber blew himself up inside Baghdad's largest Sunni mosque, killing 29 people during prayers, a shocking strike on a place of worship similar to the one that brought Iraq to the brink of civil war five years ago.

Officials say 38 more people were injured in the strike yesterday on the Um al-Qura mosque during prayers in the western Baghdad neighbourhood of Al-Jamiaah.

They said parliament lawmaker Khalid al-Fahdawi, a Sunni, was among the dead.

Iraqi security officials said parliament lawmaker Khalid al-Fahdawi, a Sunni, was among the dead.

That the bomber detonated his explosives vest inside the mosque is particularly alarming, as it is reminiscent of a 2006 attack on a Shiite shrine in the Sunni city of Samarra that fueled widespread sectarian violence and nearly ignited a nationwide civil war. In that strike, Sunni militants planted bombs around the Samarra shrine. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TAXING SAGA OF KATZ AND THE DOME

URBAN COMPASS

TERENCE HARDING
METRO EDMONTON

In Edmonton did Khubla Katz a pleasure dome decree.

My apologies to Samuel Taylor Coleridge, but one has to wonder at the influence of Emperor Katz on the activities of the City of Edmonton. We are, after all, talking about an arena and not something essential to the future of the city.

Having a downtown arena would probably help make our downtown more interesting and it might spark increased development. But there is no guarantee that it would actually do that or anything else for that matter. However, given the time, effort and expense that have been the result of his desire to have Edmontonians pony up tax dollars for his pleasure dome, one might think that building a new arena downtown has the same value as the aqueducts that ensured the citizens of ancient Rome a regular water supply.

The latest development in this ongoing saga is the announcement of a proposed CRL that would provide tax dollars that could be used for the new arena. The first CRL plan was based on the arena providing increased tax revenues from the area surrounding the arena. This new CRL proposal is based on the idea that a new arena would revitalize the whole downtown and would perform result in a much greater amount of tax revenue.

These revenues would be put into a separate pot and would be used to upgrade a number of areas in the downtown. On the face of it, it sounds like a good idea. However, it is worth remembering that those tax dollars will do nothing to improve street cleaning in your area, repair your sidewalks or anything else you might think needs doing on the part of the city.

It is also worth remembering that right now these are imaginary dollars that are based on a future that may or may not come to pass during the next 20 years. Another recession, or some unforeseen natural disaster could change all that. And if a downtown arena fails to produce an increase in the value of the properties in the downtown, we will be in for yet another whoops moment in the history of Edmonton.

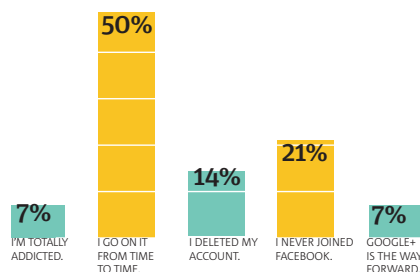

If the downtown arena goes ahead on his terms, perhaps Mr. Katz can follow Ozymandias' lead and write this on the side of the new arena. "My name is Daryl Katz, king of kings: look on my works ye, mighty, and despair!"

New school of freedom

ATHENS, GA. As college students return to campus in Georgia, a new state policy has closed the doors of the five most competitive state schools to illegal immigrants, but a group of professors has found a way to offer those students a taste of what they've been denied.

The five University of Georgia professors have started a program they're calling Freedom University. They're offering to teach a rigorous seminar course once a week meant to mirror courses taught at the most competitive schools and aimed at students who have graduated from high school but can't go to one of those top schools because of the new policy or because of cuts to state scholarship programs.

"What we're hoping is that people in decision-making positions will reconsider the policy," said Reinaldo Roman, one of the organizing professors. "It goes counter to our aims. We have invested enormous resources in these young people." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Not too posh to push around a cop in Mexico

An odd instance of police abuse in which two snobby women shoved, slapped and insulted a cop has captured Mexico's attention and sparked debate on police tactics, gender and class issues.

Tapes of the late-night confrontation on Aug. 20 in the upscale Mexico City neighbourhood of Polanco became a hit on social networking and video-sharing sites, exposing Mexicans' frustration with both the arrogant rich and ineffectual police.

Pulled over in a traffic stop, the two women shout, swear, shove and slap a policeman, who does nothing to resist. He tries to calm them, moves away several times and eventually allows them to drive away.

One of the women, a former Puebla state beauty queen identified as Maria Vanessa Polo Cajica, can be heard on the video waving her hand in front of the officer's face, insulting his mother and calling him a "crappy wage slave."

Police chief Manuel Mondragon said the officers were waiting for a backup unit of female officers to detain the pair, because male cops only physically detain women if someone's safety is at risk. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hosting battles resume

► Wrestlers, social butterflies and a straight-laced couple sharpen their knives and wits as the second season of Dinner Party Wars begins

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

In a suburban kitchen on the outer edge of Toronto, half-cooked steak, mystery fish eggs and a whole lot of vodka set the scene for an "interesting" Russian-style dinner party.

Known more for their ability to throw a wild soiree than master a dinner party, hosts Erina Karamani and Elena Morozovathe focus their hosting energy on the entertainment portion of the evening: vodka shots, a martini demonstration and raunchy question period.

On the set of the reality show Dinner Party Wars, where teams take turns trying to one-up each others culinary prowess, hosting grace and entertainment abilities, the 24-year old hosts are delivered bad news moments before their guests arrive.

"That's not caviar," celebrity chef Corbin Tomaszewski tells the 24-year-old hosts. "That's roe." Starring blankly at each other, the two blonds dressed in animal prints have to think quickly.

"Maybe it's their strategy to appear like dumb blonds who don't know what they're doing," says fellow contestant Greg Danakas. "But I'm sure they're not (dumb blonds) and they will really surprise us."

Having grown up in the stock room of his parents' restaurant, Danakas says he and his wife Helen make a perfect hosting team.

"I do the cooking and he does the entertaining," she says adding his career as a high school drama teacher is evidence he's not one to shy away from centre stage.

What happens when you throw two wrestlers, a conservative couple and a life-of-the-party duo into a ring with a bottle of tequila? The season premier of Dinner Party Wars airs Wednesday at 10 p.m. ET/PT on Food Network Canada.

Party tips

► Chef Corbin
Preparation, preparation, preparation. The number one reason people fail at dinner parties, says Corbin, is because they don't think ahead. "They fly by the seat of their pants and more often than not, are caught with them down."

► Cook what you know, know what you cook.
"Too often we have people who want to play chef and cook things far too complicated," says Corbin. Usually, the show-off chef fails. Keeping things simple is the key to success.

► Anthea Turner, etiquette guru
Get it done. Finishing chores well in advance leaves more time for the hosts to entertain. "Set the table the night before and get your clothes ready," says Turner, who confesses she sometimes lays plates and cutlery two nights before a shindig.

► Clean it! "Many times there's a toothbrush, bleach bottle or remnants of kid's potty in the washroom. I don't want to see any of that," says Turner. Paying attention to the small details goes a long way: Fresh soap, a clean hand towel and extra toilet roll are musts when hosting.

► Reversible bucket hats are just one of the many projects in Oliver + S: Little Things to Sew by Liesl Gibson.

Last-minute summer projects

► Making clothes with your kids' input is a great way to bond ► Try bucket hats as a start

Making a bucket hat probably isn't on anyone's bucket list, but maybe it should be.

The reversible bucket hat in the book Oliver + S: Little Things to Sew (STC Craft, 2011) is classic, cute and comfortable. And author Liesl Gibson maintains that making it is a treat for grown-ups as well as the young recipients.

Sewing, for Gibson, is "almost a luxury." It "buys you some time to do something creative with your hands. When many of us work on computers and aren't doing much with our hands, there's a satisfaction in creating."

Gibson, a former clothing designer, began designing patterns for children's clothing several years ago, for her young daughter.

When others started asking for her patterns, she launched her Oliver + S line of patterns, and followed up with the book. It includes new takes on classic items such as a messenger bag, art smock and tutu. Gibson designed an "explorer vest" with lots of

Difficulty

Each project in the book is rated by difficulty using a one-four "scissor" system.

- One pair of scissors
Projects marked this way are suitable for beginners.
- Four pairs of scissors
These projects are for advanced sewers.

pockets after watching her daughter and friends gather stones, twigs and other little treasures.

Gibson said she's been encouraged to see many women learning to sew when they become mothers. But she also believes her patterns and projects have a broader appeal, to anyone interested in sewing for children because it doesn't take much fabric and doesn't involve the fussy fitting issues that make sewing adult clothes difficult.

"I think the big surprise for me was that it wasn't such a small audience," she said.

While children likely would find some of the toy projects more appealing, the classic clothing and accessory designs lend themselves to experimenting with a variety of fabrics. The bucket hat, for example, can be customized by using a patterned fabric featuring a particular child's interests.

And a child who might otherwise balk at wearing a hat might embrace one that he or she had a hand in.

As with many of the book's projects, Gibson designed the hat with her daughter in mind. But it works just as well for boys.

The hat is reversible, so you can choose two favourite fabrics, or you could put a pocket on the outside.

It is rated "two scissors" because it requires sewing curved seams and topstitching, but no one step is complicated.

"It's small enough that you can make a bunch," Gibson said.

Working on plan bee

► What's happening to Canada's honey bees? Crucial to our survival, these incredible insects help pollinate the majority of the world's food crops ► Photographer Geoff Fitzgerald is chronicling the efforts of those trying to help

"The term CCD (colony collapse disorder) was first coined in the later part of 2006 when there was a huge rise in the number of honey bees that began disappearing from their hives in North America and Europe," says photographer Geoff Fitzgerald.

"The main reason is still unknown; however there are many proposed causes like malnutrition, pathogens, mites, fungus and pesticides. Many scientists believe this phenomenon is caused by a combination of these factors; it is still hard to say."

Living in downtown Toronto, Fitzgerald never thought beekeeping in the city was possible. That was until he heard about the hives on the roof of the Fairmont Royal York Hotel.

Fitzgerald is chronicling the efforts of the Royal York, along with those by the Canadian Opera Company at the Four Seasons Centre for the Performing Arts and University of Toronto campuses.

Fitzgerald hopes to expand the series to include Fairmont hotels in Vancouver, Quebec and Calgary.

He also wants to photograph hives at Vancouver's city hall and the convention centre.

"I wanted to shoot these photographs as environmental portraits, not just close-ups of bees but to really show the urban environment, rooftop location and its surroundings."

I wanted the viewer to see the (person) behind the mask, to see how proud and passionate they are of their busy, hard working girls."

Bad news, nice guys

Study shows that the mean ones at work make more

A study presented in San Antonio, Texas, has shown that the people at work who make things miserable for everyone else, are actually the highest earners.

The study, called Do Nice Guys — and Gals — Really Finish Last?, by Dr. Beth Livingston, Timothy A. Judge of the University of Notre Dame and Charlice Hurst of the University of Western Ontario, looks into “agreeableness” and its effect on income.

The researchers analyzed information from three different studies that surveyed 10,000 workers over about 20 years. They found that men who measured “less agreeable” earned more — 18 per cent more — than their nice guy counterparts. That’s about $9,972 more a year for being a jerk.

“Nice guys do not necessarily finish last, but they do finish a distant second in terms of earnings,” the study says.

Ladies, it goes for you, too. Less agreeable women earn about five per cent more than those of us who abide by common niceties.

So why doesn’t the old adage “do to others as you would have them do to you” pay off? According to the study, “people who are low in agreeableness may be perceived as more competent by virtue of their lack of warmth.” ● METRO “Teachers are angels disguised as humans”.

Jemy Joseph looked out from the podium to her graduating class at Francis Libermann School.

How far she had come since arriving at the age of 14 from India feeling scared and confused about life in a strange new country.

“I was verbally abused and bullied by other students.”

It was her Canadian teachers that provided the turning point for Jemy in her early years in Canada.

“They dragged me into extracurricular activities. I joined the band and became the editor of the yearbook.”

Under the gentle guidance and leadership of her teachers, Jemy graduated with top honours and is now pursuing a Master’s degree in Cardiovascular Sciences at the University of Ottawa.

Lincicome weathers storm

ROBERT LABERGE/GETTY IMAGES

American beats poor conditions to win Canadian Women's Open

Brittany Lincicome put a new spin on the old show tune Singing In the Rain as she gritted her way through a storm to victory in the $2.2-million CN Canadian Women's Open.

The 25-year-old American made a dramatic par save in a driving rain to close with a 2-under 70 and edge defending champion Michelle Wie and Stacy Lewis by one stroke at Hillsdale Golf Club yesterday in Mirabel, Que.

Lincicome, who earned $331,492, said she kept herself calm by singing country songs to herself as she parred the final six holes to stay ahead of Lewis and hold off Wie, the winner last year in Winnipeg. Wie sank long putts at the 15th and 17th to make it close with an even-par 72.

Lewis had put up the low score of the day — a 67 on a day in which only 16 of 78 were under par — more than an hour earlier.

"I was very patient, singing a lot of songs, very chatty," said Lincicome, who said singing to herself is part of her sports psychology program to stay focused. "The weather was not great, but I was still having fun."

In her post-match interview, she cautioned that "I'm not a good singer, so I'm not singing for you."

The victory was nearly as sweet for her caddy, former LPGA regular A.J. Eathorne of Penticton, B.C., whose own playing career has been on hold since 2009.

Lincicome pulled her tee shot on 18 into a tent and had to take a drop, but managed to get the ball up near the green, chip it close and make the winning putt. She also had fine saves on the eighth and ninth.

"I'm growing as a golfer, I guess," said Lincicome. "If this would have happened a couple of years ago, I'm not sure how I would have handled it."

Playing in the last group, Wie needed birdie on 18 to force a playoff, but missed the green to the right and left her chip shot wide and short. She made the putt to keep a share of second place and win $174,812.

Fears that the final round would be washed out by remnants of Tropical Storm Irene did not pan out. Rain and nasty gusts of wind hit the lead groups about midway through their rounds, but nothing that would force a stoppage in play. THE CANADIAN PRESS.
